What You Need to Know...

In the Event of My Death or Disability

Recommendations for the Access Information & Bills To Pay Forms Below:

It is recommended that you print out enough of the following sheets to provide information on accessing anything that would be important immediately upon your death or disability, or items that a spouse or family member would need to know how to pay/access/ collect. Also consider weekly/monthly occurrences that should be maintained. Think about the things that you do daily/weekly/ monthly/annually that your spouse or family member would need to continue/cancel. Some items have been filled in to help get you started. Additional blank sheets are provided to allow completely personalized sheets.

The "Where to Find it" sheet is a good place to provide information on items that you don't want to, or can't document in writing, such as account information, child custody documents, etc. However, it is recommended that you combine this printable with any other pertinent documents and place in an easy (for your family) to find location. Note - this does not replace the need for a Will or other legal advice.
